Overall Lead for the AaE Programme

Dr Simon Edgar, Director of Medical Education, NHS Lothian

Simon, a consultant anaesthetist living and working in Edinburgh, is Director of Medical Education for NHS Lothian. At NHS Lothian, he provides broad-ranging input into high-quality clinical education for undergraduates and postgraduate doctors in training.

His academic interests are in simulation for learning, systems improvement, and development of faculty. He believes passionately in the power of relationships, in the development of individuals to achieve their best, and in the strength of effective teamwork and joy in work. Dr Edgar is a graduate of the Intermountain Healthcare advanced training programme in leadership for health care delivery improvement and he set up the Lothian Improvement Academy, mentoring the first cohort through the leadership programme. He has a master's degree in medical education from Edinburgh University.

Joint Lead for AaE: Teaching and Training in the Workplace
Dr Jo Kerr, Consultant Anaesthetist

After completing her training in Mersey, Dr Jo Kerr has been a Consultant Anaesthetist at Yeovil District Hospital for fifteen years, College Tutor for six and Core Anaesthetics Training Programme Director for the Severn School of Anaesthesia and ICM for the past three years.

Interested in post-graduate teaching since a trainee, she completed the Certificate of Medical Education and has been instrumental in developing new courses and workshops locally and nationally.

In her spare time she practises her education techniques by attempting to teach her hobbies of sailing, cycling and skiing to her three children and her dog, with varying degrees of success

Joint Lead for AaE: Teaching and Training in the Workplace
Dr Ben Ulyatt, Consultant Anaesthetist, Dundee

Ben started training in Edinburgh and Sydney, for a combined CCT in A&E and ICU. Once he actually saw the light, he took up anaesthetic training in Edinburgh and became a consultant in Tayside in 2010.

His interest in teaching was first sparked when he started teaching ALS and EPLS in 2003. As a trainee, he was a lecturer, and continued his interest as anaesthetic lead for teaching 5th year medical students. On the postgraduate side, he is a clinical and educational supervisor, lead for neuro-anaesthesia, and he teaches on the Scottish Clinical Supervision course.

Joint Lead for AaE: Advanced Educational Supervision
Dr Janet Barrie, Consultant Anaesthetist, Royal Oldham Hospital

Janet is a Consultant Anaesthetist at Royal Oldham Hospital. Her clinical interests include obstetric anaesthesia, vascular anaesthesia and acute pain.

Her educational interests include teaching and learning (how people learn is a fascinating topic!) and the doctor in/with a difficulty. She is the Trust Specialty Training Lead for ACCS. Outside work she enjoys fell walking and local history.
